DAY 1 AND 2

Since I arrived in the Netherlands, I felt in home.

My host family gave me an amazing welcome, they were really kind and I was just incredibly comfortable because they made me feel like I belonged there.

The next day we had to go to class, and that day went fantastic too.

I got to know a lot of people from different countries and they all were really nice, we had lunch after doing some activities and then we went for a walk around the city.

At first, I wasn't expecting to create such a big group of friends, but it ended up being 14 teenagers having a good time exploring every corner of Amsterdam, what an amazing beginning of this experience!

DAY 3

The 3rd day, actually the 2nd, started with activities about making timelines, then we had a break and finally the lunch.

At first we had a workshop but it got cancelled so we just played a game with the whole group, and after the spanish, italian and some of the portuguese team, walked a bit through the center, because in a few hours we had the boat tour that was going to be on wednesday but ended up being that evening.

The day finished with the coolest bowling match, we even got free food! It was a fantastic day but our dutch partners made it better!

DAY 4

On Wednesday we were already halfway through the experience, and all the activities we had done and the afternoons we went out to do things together were incredible.

The fourth day is summed up in a visit to the city's churches and a capoeira workshop that brought out our most artistic side.

At the end of the activities, the little group that had been doing things after class, went to have something to eat and later we finished the afternoon ice skating and having dinner in an Italian restaurant.

DAY 5

thursday was the penultimate day and we knew we had to make the most of it, we had two visits to the reijksmuseum and the van gogh museum and these were spectacular.

After that we had free time which we spent lying in a park until lunchtime, since we went to buy something to eat at Albert Heijn, that famous supermarket in Amsterdam that I liked so much.

We ate and went to Rosa's house, my amazing host sister to prepare the food for that night since we would have a kind of festival and there was going to be a table with food from different countries.

That night was great, we did very entertaining activities and the food was very good.

And to end the day, we went to spend some time in the playground, chatting all together.

DAY 6

And the last day arrived, we all knew that that day at night this incredible experience would end but at the same time we were very happy to have had the opportunity to meet such wonderful people.

The day began with the delivery of certificates and reports on e-twinning. Later they brought the food and once we ate we went out to buy some souvenirs and end the afternoon at the fair and before this we said goodbye to the Turkish and Italian team.

The experience had come to an end and I couldn't be happier.

I was very lucky with the family, they took care of me like another child and every day was better, I will always be grateful to them. And the group of friends that I take with me from Amsterdam is incredible, each and every one of them taught me something and whenever we went out to do something after the activities we had a great time.

This experience has been wonderful and I will never forget it!
